

30 Seconds to Mars, Hidden To Label

(Laughter)

A military force established by deception of sense that you deceive enemies

so that they do not know your real condition, and that they can establish supremacy.

It is mobilized by a game in a sense that it goes into action when it sees an advantage, dividing and recombining is done to confuse opponents and observe how they react to you so that they can adapt and situate and seize victory.

Therefore, when it moves swiftly it is like the ramp, when it goes slowly it is like the force.

It is rapacious as fire and immovable as mountains, and as swift as the wind in that it goes without a trace and withdraws like lightning and it is like a force in that its whirling and is rapacious as fire across a plain, not leaving a single blade of grass.

But as immovable as a mountain, and it is dark all around.

It is hard to know as the dark ends up killing thunder.

To ponder a locality to line up your troupes to expand your territory divide the spoils.

The rule for military operations is to feed of the enemy as much as possible, however, the localities where people do not have very much it is necessary to divide up the troupes into smaller groups to take what they need here and there.

For when then and there, there will be enough

Welcome to the universe