

98 Degrees, He'll Never Be...(What I Used To Be

I heard you found yourself a new man
And you say you're as happy as can be
No one can play the game like you can
But does he give you everything you need
But in good time (in good time) (First chorus)
You're gonna find (gonna find)
You're eyes were closed
And your heart was blind
Now it's too late (its too late) to change your fate (change your fate)
Cause there's no way he'll ever take my place.

He'll never be
What I used to be to you (you)
So if you wanna play the fool
Then make that move
And do what ya gotta do
You'll never find
A heart that is half as true (true)
I guess you really never knew
But soon you'll see
That he'll never be
What I used to be to you

Does he even have a notion
Of what you really feel inside
Are you going through the motions
Livin' a lie like you're satisfied
But late at night (late at night)
You realize (realize)
There's somethin' tellin' you it just ain't right
I's not the same (not the same)
Am I to blame (am I to blame)
And when you're with him
You call my name

He'll never be
What I used to be to you
So if you wanna play the fool (play the fool)
Then make that move
And do what ya gotta do (do what you ya gotta do)
You'll never find
A heart that is half as true
I guess you really never knew
But soon you'll see
That he'll never be
What I used to be to you

He'll never be me

I gave you all my love
What were you thinking of
Guess it was just a game
It's all the same to you
Too late to try again
This story's at an end
It's time for movin' on
Now what ya gonna do

(first chorus)
