

Afromental, Differences

Different needs, different looks, different feelings,
Out of place, out of time, out of meaning,
Holy rules, that they praise, feel like prison,
All this pain makes you feel not worth living

And I know this road and the
Lonely coldness but
You're not alone there noo
Though these days still ain't over you've got to know
Your life's depending on you.

Behind every story,
There's fear by your side,
For years it's been building hides,

I know the glory will come if I try
My feet burn but I do see the light.

Different needs, different looks, different feelings,
Out of place, out of time, out of meaning,
And I know this road and the
Lonely coldness but
You're not alone there noo
Though these days still ain't over you've got to know,
Your life's depending on you.

Behind every story,
There's fear by your side,
For years it's been building hides,

I know the glory will come if I try,
My feet burn but i do see the light.

Your life's depending on you.

Behind every story,
There's fear by your side,
For years it's been building hides
I know the glory will come if I try,
My feet burn but I do see the light.