Alicja Szemplińska, Empires

Ashes to ashes dust into dust I'll follow you through black. Try to forgive that I'm not awake dreaming this dream could last

no looking down there's fool's gold in our eyes burning an empire happens so easy playing whit fire maybe it's you and me burning an empire is our fault we rise and fall

Like moth to the flame like birds to a pane of glass hoping for change but we do the same we're gasoline and a match

no looking down there's fool's gold in our eyes

we just want it all used to be a tower so tall now we're only crumbling walls we rise and fall moth to the flame as we do the same like birds to a pane of glass down to the wire empire fall
