

American Heartbreak, She's Tellin' Lies

American Heartbreak
Miscellaneous
She's Tellin' Lies

This is the way it feels
When you are lost
Can't help feeling
I've given up
A lot more than I got
No hope inside
Believe me when I see surprise
On your face and in your lies
You spewed to me
On our wedding day
And I can't face you
You come out swinging
You'd better hope your aim is true
Come out swinging
You might be swinging from a noose
She's tellin' lies
I realize
She's tellin' lies
About you again
I realize
She's not my friend
No one wants to hear you
When you're down
Turn their backs and
Turn off the phones
And draw the shade
Estranged from hope
Desperate and alone
It's getting difficult to swallow
Or work up a sound
Anymore, anyway
And I can't face you
You come out swinging
You'd better hope your aim is true
Come out swinging
You might be swinging from a noose
She's tellin' lies
I realize
She's tellin' lies
About you again
I realize
She's not my friend
(Repeat Chorus)
