

Anne-Marie, Gentleman

Bravado, impossible
Too big to climb, too wild to tame
If only there was something else, to show me yourself

Don't say any more, hold your tongue
I've heard it before – it's not love
You thought you had a plan, act like a gentleman
You thought you had it all effortlessly in hand
You thought you had me uh nana uh nana
But you can't fool me uh nana uh nana
There's no gentleman here

My everything is not for fun
You've shown me that it's all you want
Why can't you settle down?
Cause I could love you I swear down

Don't say any more, hold your tongue
I've heard it before – it's not love
You thought you had a plan, act like a gentleman
You thought you had it all effortlessly in hand
You thought you had me uh nana uh nana
But you can't fool me uh nana uh nana
There's no gentleman here

I need a gentleman who holds my hand, won't hide anything from me
A gentleman, who understands won't take anything from me
But you're a cheat, you're dark and weak
And you break everything that you can
Can't you see that I can't see no gentleman

You thought you had a plan, act like a gentleman
You thought you had it all effortlessly in hand
You thought you had me uh nana uh nana
Uh nana uh nana
Plan, act like a gentleman
You had it all
Uh nana uh nana
But you can't fool me, uh nana uh nana

There's no gentleman here
