

Bananarama, Love Truth and Honesty

Never trust your own emotions
They'll always let you down
(Always let you down)
And the one that's closest to you
May not always be around
(Always be around)
I never questioned
The promises you made
Every time I gave my heart
I was betrayed
What a fool
That I should ever believe
In love, truth and honesty
All the time just keep on hurting me
Maybe everyone's a stranger
I watch them come and go
(Watch them come and go)
But I think everyone's in danger
If they let their feelings show
(Let their feelings show)
There's a lesson
And a price you have to pay
If you give your heart
Don't let it be betrayed
What a fool
That I should ever believe
In love, truth and honesty
All the time just keep on hurting me
What a fool
Every time I find I'm deceived
Where is the love, truth and honesty
If you see it won't you bring it on home to me?
There's a lesson
And a price you have to pay
If you give your heart
Don't let it be betrayed
What a fool
That I should ever believe
In love, truth and honesty
All the time just keep on hurting me
What a fool
Every time I find I'm deceived
Where is the love, truth and honesty
If you see it won't you bring it on home to me?
What a fool
That I should ever believe
In love, truth and honesty
All the time just keep on hurting me
