Bebo Norman, Britney

Britney, I'm sorry for the lies we told We took you into our arms, then left you cold Britney, I'm sorry for this cruel, cruel world We sell the beauty but destroy the girl Britney, I'm sorry for your broken heart We stood aside and watched you fall apart I'm sorry we told you fame would fill you up And money moves the man, so drink the cup I know love goes around the world we know And you never see it coming back You never see it coming back I know love goes around the world we know And you never see it coming back But I can see it coming back for you Yes, coming back for you Britney, I'm sorry for the stones we throw We tear you down just so we can watch the show Britney, I'm sorry for the words we say We point the finger as you fall from grace I know love goes around the world we know And you never see it coming back You never see it coming back And I know love goes around the world we know And you never see it coming back But I can see it coming back for you

Yeah, it's coming back for you Yeah, it's coming back for you Yeah, it's coming back for you, yeah Britney, I do believe that love has come Here for the broken Here for the ones like us I know love goes around the world we know And you never see it coming back You never see it coming back And I know love goes around the world we know And you never see it coming back But I can see it coming back I know love goes around the world we know And you never see it coming back But I can see it coming back for you Yeah, it's coming back for you (I can see it coming back) Yeah, it's coming back for you (I can see it coming back) Yeah, it's coming back for you, yeah (I can see it coming back) I can see it coming back I can see it coming back
