Beck, Ship In A Bottle

When I called you in the morning You were struggling for sense You were journeying through memories so vicious You made all your dying wishes come true

But I know you're gonna try To live without love, by and by But that's not living that's just time Going by Going by My love

Another ship in a bottle It's got no place to sail See your waves getting darker every hour The stars have lost their power in the sky

But I know you're gonna try To live without love, by and by but that's not living that's just time Going by Going by
