

Bleed The Dream, Broken Wings

in a dream i spent a day with you in a carriage bought by blood the clouds were singing songs of fear and lose and they cut me down to size

broken wings
have a home tonight
no one is listening, no one is listening when darkness fell on the streets last night never expected, we never expected this in a perfect world, i'd never know your name and do we even know it when we die or will death just pass us by please just pass us by

when all this pain is justified while all the time is passing by now is when we clenched our fists knowing we can fight through this the hours and days are gone the weeks and months are moving on can't they see that's nothing gonna stop us now

never expected, we never expected this
