

Brandy, Where Are You Now?

You just came into my world
A little boy without a girl
You just smiled at me,
I knew it was on...
We spent weeks that were a blur
We made love so sweet and pure,
Then I knew, you were gone
Where is the man I've come to know?
With the heart I thought was gold
You just turned me out and walked out the door,
How could you just be so cold?
What a hard and heavy blow
Now I'm lying here, alone on the floor
Ooh...

Are you in a better place?
Or behind another's face?
Where are you now?

I've searched inside my soul
For the reasons never told
And what bothers me, is they know
You should have told me from the start
Instead of playing with my heart
You just left me here with nothing to hold
So...
I'm taking it easy, cleared my head
Cried me a river, said some prayers
But I often wonder, when I'm in my bed
Where are you now?

Are you in a better place?
Or behind another's face?
Where are you now?

(Repeat till end)