

Camila Cabello, What Do I Know About Love?

What Do I Know About Love?

nothing!

where does the love go

when it's torn out?

when does it leave?

why does it die?

do you kill it in one violent blow?

or is it a million unattended unhealed cuts and scratches?

what do I know about it?

everything

it creeps into my chest

uninvited and untamable

I know love has no mercy on anyone rich, poor, independent codependent, confident, insecure

It will bring you to your knees if you did it right what I know for sure about love is that you never come out of it the same the other person is a chemical and I am a chemical and we both will come out as different people than when we met

I know when you're in love kissing is everything because words aren't the only way to tell someone how you feel

I know when you fall in love you feel like you're the first and only 2 people in the world every kiss, every touch, every caress is like something you feel nobody has ever felt before and you think

"has everybody that's fallen in love before just..

walked around this nonchalantly the whole time?

you're at a restaurant with your friends and you feel it

the secret under the tongue burning like fire, but sweet and it creeps up to your cheeks and makes you smile
