Chimaira, Refuse To See

One more time I feel my life slip through my finger tips I cry My eyes bleed with pain...Pain! You never understood how I felt You always shunned my damned existing fate You ran away from...Me He thought he could not run away I told him pain denies soul Save your life Refuse to see He'll refuse to see How my life is really going It's time to worship but he does not care Oh at one time he did After 600 years it's getting old, this goddamn trial is done You thought you could run and hide You thought you could rise up Motherfucker you were wrong Refuse to see Led to believe that I could gain your respect You've never felt the need Except at one time His hands red with blood Crucified a martyr for my sins It didn't work ... My soul will soon die like his One more day has gone by No one mourns his passing The final shot went right through His pain gone Crucified all his ways So many days filled with pain Crucified all his sorrow Refused to see!