

Clifford T. Ward, April

Winter, you may laugh at me

Threaten with your heart of ice

Tellin' me my love has gone

I don't need your cold advice

I don't need to know

I don't need to know.

April, why did you go

When you should 'a' known

You were my spring?

April, why did you go

When you should 'a' known

You were my spring?

Summer, will you smile again?

Let me see your heart entice

Tell me that my love is true

I will take your warm advice

I would love to know

I would love to know.

April, why did you go

When you should 'a' known

You were my spring?

April, why did you go

When you should 'a' known

You were my spring?

Autumn, you may cry a lot

And still pretend

That we are safe when we are not

Love will surely die and end

Love will die and end.

INSTRUMENTAL

April, why did you go

When you should 'a' known

You were my spring?

April, why did you go

When you should 'a' known

You were my spring?

(Repeat and fade)