Default, Sick & Tired

I feel this, this tension inside of me Pressure is presently pushing down on me The first time it starts with just you and I Repeating myself but you don't hear me

I can see what you see But is it worth it to me? The same old conversation Over and over

I'm just sick and tired
Of all those lies you tell me
You say those same things to me
Over and over and over
It's safe to say you surprise
I see right through you this time
But I keep telling you
It's over, it's over

You've taken these things that belong to me Twisted so tightly and torn so carefully The last time it ends with just you and I Alone in a room with these torn bed sheets

I can see what you see And it ain't worth it to me The same old conversation Over and over

I'm just sick and tired
Of all those lies you tell me
You say those same things to me
Over and over and over
It's safe to say you surprise
I see right through you this time
But I keep telling you
It's over, it's over

You swore I'd regret it Now thanks to you I can't forget it Cost of this constant battle Won't even miss you at all Free from this life that you call...

I'm just sick and tired
Of all those lies you tell me
You say those same things to me
Over and over and over
It's safe to say you surprise
I see right through you this time
But I keep telling you
It's over, it's over

I'm just sick and tired
Of all those lies you tell me
You say those same things to me
Over and over and over
It's safe to say you surprise
I see right through you this time
But I keep telling you
It's over, it's over
