Duff McKagan, The Majority

You call me the mean man You point your finger at me Having problems with authority In every major city And it's so easy for you The majority, the majority And there's no peace for you The majority Your white housewives And your money-sucking friends Don't need you to be I'll be me to the end And it's so easy for you The majority, the majority And there's no peace for you You got to think about your children Fuck bureaucracy Take the weight off your shoul-We're not the public enemy Can't you see, can't you see You call me the mean man I say you call me the mean man And it's so easy for you, the majority, the majority And there's no peace for you Your white housewives And your money-sucking friends Don't need you to be cause I'll be me to the end Got to think about the children, think think about the children You got to think about the children
