Eighteen Visions, Tower Of Snakes

You told me no apologies but I'm sorry it couldn't cut the mustard and it's absurd Hey, you turned the light off You gave me darkness You sucked the blood right out of life Are you running away from me? Are you running away from you? You showed me what I should see but I'm still blind and I can't breathe You swallowed pride like someone died You chewed it up and spit it out but no one's to be found now Are you running away from me? Are you running away from you? Hey, what are you running away from? You told me what I should see but I'm still blind and I can't breathe Are you running away from me? Are you running away from you?