Elton John, Thank You For Your Loving

Oh pity me I'm so alone and so blue My friends have all gone away Their friendliness too

It was I on my own With no need to be alone And I wanted to die That's when you came along

And thank you for all of your loving Thank you for all of your tears Thank you for all of your kindness

Thank you for being here

What a difference it makes My life has started again And if you go away It just won't be the same

It's hard to say what I feel When I'm by your side You're there when I'm worried All my troubles in you I confide