

Ernest Tubb, In And Out (Of Every Heart In Town)

You've been in and out of every heart in town
It's plain to see you'll never settle down
You've come a long way from the girl I used to know
You've been in and out of every heart in town
Though I see you only now and then
Each new heart you break makes mine ache again
You keep living like this day will be the last
A heart that's been all building up a past
A hundred times you found true love then turned it down
You've been in and out of every heart in town

[guitar]

Though I see you only now and then
Each new heart you break makes mine ache again
You've been loved and lost by dozens just like me
You're in and out of every heart you see
The only heart you haven't broke you haven't found
You've been in and out of every heart in town
