Eskobar, Ease Your Way

Ease your way trough the dark times of the day watch your love as you walks down that I

if you love her you should tell her that you felling down, down, down if it matters she will listen to what you have to say

For the once you never knew in our time and our shame is hard to find on their own lifting stones and it's our who break their bones me and you never knew and our shame is hard to do and it goes and it goes lots of time
