Europe, Years

are there years between us? have you seen me when I didn't see you? its so good to know that someone can love me as much as I think you do... do I love you? your a fool if you don't know or maybe i'm so good at hiding even the truth is hidden from you but somehow I doubt that your as smart as I could ever be but still my question remains is our love meant to be? cause it feels too good to be true can someone love me so much more than I love myself is this all true? does love resonate in your heart like the songs say it does? I can't even begin to believe my dreams when they actually come true...
