

Face First, Goodnight New York

The Kodak next to me, is what puts me to sleep,
and sends me to a place where you're always there.
Through wood bed board I peek, I see me kiss your cheek,
I close my eyes and you're kissing my lips.
The weekends I live for,
what did I do before I had your Courtney?
You showed me the happiness.

And I'll hold all the pictures real close,
then press them up against me
and hope that I'll get one more minute, of being with you.
The Kodak's next to me, our love puts me to sleep,
and sends me to a place where you're always there.
And in my dreams I see a picturesque you and me,
I'm so in love and I know that you really see.
Everyday I live for, I say goodnight once more with you,
Courtney, You showed me the happiness.
