

Face Tomorrow, Paralysed

Fill me in on the latest fase.
I have missed some changes society has made.
Cause it seems you treat your companion like a whore.
Can you stop pretending, cause I can't take it anymore.

And it feels just like we have lost it all.
We are paralysed.

Something tells me we're not too late.
No more testing. We need to operate.
So cut it out before it's taking a hold of me I can't control.

And it feels just like we have lost it all.
We are paralysed.

No more silence.
No whispering.
Just lay it all out, I'm listening.

We could make a difference.
If only we knew how to communicate.
We could solve our differences, if only we could relate.

Just like anyone.
I can feel this.
Stop pretending, cause I can't take it.
Come on let's try to change it, cause we're slowly slipping away.

And it feels just like we have lost it all.
We are paralysed.