

Fates Warning, Guardian

These walls are stained engraved with pain
You will find them under shadows casting shame

Some it's all they'll ever know, Angels of the fortunate sons come and go ... You may not

Entities pass in the night Guardians and the Reaper fight the will to live shall win Mares of hope ride through their dreams blinding light awakens sleeping dawn it seems

It was all a dream endless dream

I will wish upon a star I believe in you

And if my will has strayed afar I rememebered you

Will you remember me

I the one you sentenced Pennance unabsolved

Answer me save my will have you forgotten me

Pace the hallway blindman for a million miles of stars

His mind has seen. think you may he lives in darkness

We're the dark he's seen the light of dream

Karen's been asleep forever I know she hears me

She has so much to say, Machine shoots sparks through face

Unto my hand, unto my heart

I'm a fire without a flame helpless child without a name

With broken wings catch me I'm falling

I'm a question with no answer who are you that takes my life away from me unveil the bondarries of the black

I had a dream I was you strong as the fire

In your veins then when I called out your Name I would remain and witness the pain

I am beyond silent black I will be back

As your guardian

Angels in white you have sacrificed witness and bury the pain

Walk hand and hand with the fear stricken child

Strengthen the weak and the lame pillar of pennance and lore

Perpetual journey into the realm the sovereign servitor
