

Fiction Plane, Drink

No drink no drugs no cigarettes no loose woman because I'm weak well that's all fine for you to say but I'm too shy to even speak I can't go out in the world without a little fire in my soul it puts a fight into me you push me and I just can't let it roll, roll

I don't know if i should drink or stay at home alone keeping out of trouble, never learning nothing when I don't know I'm alive
it gives me fire
I don't know whether to drink or stay at home alone keeping out of trouble, turning into nothing when I don't know I'm alive there was a time don't you forget when I was green and you were red all boastful lies no great surprise what shit comes out of my drunken head I met a woman that night she loved me for the stories that I told but when the booze ran out my silence left her ring hand feeling cold, cold

I don't know if i should drink or stay at home alone keeping out of trouble,
never learning nothing when I don't know I'm alive
it gives me fire
I don't know whether to drink or stay at home alone keeping out of trouble, turning into nothing when I don't know I'm alive
you give me fire

no drinks no drugs no cigarettes nothing but silence caused by doubt there was a good boy inside me but the landlord tried to kick that good boy out, that good boy out

I don't know if i should drink or stay at home alone keeping out of trouble,
never learning nothing when I don't know I'm alive
it gives me fire
I don't know whether to drink or stay at home alone keeping out of trouble, turning into nothing when I don't know I'm alive
you give me fire

you give me fire
you give me fire
you give me fire
you give me fire

you give me fire
you give me fire
you give me fire
you give me fire

I don't know if i should drink or stay at home alone keeping out of trouble,
never learning nothing when I don't know I'm alive
I don't know whether to drink or stay at home alone keeping out of trouble, turning into nothing when I don't know I'm alive
you give me fire
