Flobots, The Moon

Ive been

Traveling the land from gravel into sand Not knowin where Im going never havin any plans Anything I wanted had to grab it in advance Abracadabra theres a rabbit in my hands cause Ive got the magic stick bust the baddest tricks Fished for a whale brought a ship up out of it Whats that I just saw? A platypus? Naw. Maybe its a rat crawling flat on his paws or a baby dragon just dragon his claws It doesnt really matter because its Saturday, so look thataway 3:00 clock matinee, lets collaborate and III pay you back soon with a crazy rap tune. But for now were just gazing at the moon

Wander and ponder the pale blue yonder
To infinity and beyond the city
Beyond the city we all want to see serenity
But some times you've gotta hop the fence to see
That all sidewalks must end eventually
I sit still at the bottom of the sea
Brainwaves chill like a sea anemone
Sentient entity
Let the spirit enter me
Patient, pervasive, how I was meant to be
A stone worn smooth by the swift currents of chaos
A place to lay a thick array of lush moss
I'm parlaying on my day off floating way off on my thought balloons and snacking on macaroons
But for now I'm just gazing at the moon.
