

Frankie J, Is This What You Call Love

You've seen him many times,
There's no use denying,
I've heard you on the phone
I've even followed you to all the places where you secretly have been alone

I even know about the times when you would say to me that you was overwhelmed with work you had
Working overtime, but you were always lyin',
Baby I might be dumb but I'am not blind.

At times I feel like I want to break down inside.
I've got to find a way out, 'cause this is tearing me to pieces. I just want to make it right.
Is this what you call love? Explain to me baby, is this really what you want from me? (Is this what you
I'm losing my patience, just hear what I'am saying. You don't want to break the family. (Don't break

Is this what you call love?
Then you got it all wrong.
This isn't the way our lives should be.
I just won't allow somebody else to come between us.

Is this what you call love.
Is this what you call love.

You come home late at night, pretending it's alright; acting like you're doing nothing wrong.
As you lay down right beside me, inside I'm dying.
You just don't understand the pain that you have put me through. (just don't understand)
After all the things I have ever done for you. Sometimes I'd rather be alone, than have a broken home

At times I feel like I want to break down inside.
I've got to find a way out 'cause this is tearing me to pieces. I just want to make it right.
Is this what you call love? Explain to me baby, Is this really what you want from me? (Is this what you
I'm losing my patience, just hear what I'am saying. You don't want to break the family. (Don't break

Is this what you call love?
Then you got it all wrong.
This isn't the way our lives should be.
I just won't allow somebody else to come between us.

Is this what you call love?

Whatever happened to forever? Cause I still want to know, explain to me your change of heart.

Is this what you call love? (Is this what you call love?)
Explain to me baby. Is this really what you want from me.
I'm losing my patience, just hear what I'am saying. You don't want to break the family.

Is this what you call love?
Then you got it all wrong.
This isn't the way our lives should be.
I just won't allow somebody else to come between us.

Is this what you call love? x 4