

Frenzal Rhomb, You Are Not My Friend

never felt bad lending a hand think you hoped I wouldn't be in a band broken ashtray I can always replace kick the door then I spit in your face

you are not my friend
you are not my friend
never ever ever again
you are not my friend
you are not my friend

dream on sunsets, a drink in the sand of all my friends and losing money in the band remember holidays that weren't such a waste broke your jaw from a punch in the face

you are not my friend
never ever ever again
you are not my friend

picture perfect with a frame that pretends to be a martyr for a cause with no end I was thinking that you needed a break what I mean was every bone in your face mental photo with discoloured eyes of dirty carpets and moistened thighs these recollections I will keep to the end cos I'm sure it's wrong, you were never my friend
