

Glen Campbell, Try A Little Kindness

Who broke the circle first
Well that's a pointless question
We both know a circle can't be broken
You thought you told me something new but you were wrong
Sometimes the loudest words are unspoken
You ran away
Forgot the promise you made
A friendship is a terrible thing to waste
Cut your nose off just to spite your face
What a stupid thing to do
Once again you show the world you're lacking mental age
And still you wonder why no one likes you
You ran away
Forgot the promise you made
A friendship is a terrible thing to waste
Spend my time
Burning all the memories
And throwing ashes in the air
Spend my time
Burying the promises
And dancing on the grave we used to share
Who broke the circle first
Well that's a perfect question
We both know that a circle can be broken
Can be broken
Has been broken
