Guster, Ramona

Ramona, where have you been? I couldn't go to sleep till you came in Ramona, you're Miss Oklahoma and you miss Oklahoma I'll get you what you want There were days when a refrain Would brighten our corner of Hickory Lane When you would sing that song for me Just like your favorite singer Why'd you have to be so nice? A wink and a girlish smile And why'd you have to punch my eye? That was something but I still want you to stay When I was younger and thought of myself I never dreamed I'd become like this A snap of your fingers, and end to the arguments Anything for you, love There were days when a refrain Would brighten our corner of Hickory Lane When you would sing that song for me The only one you know But I know now, not at the start, We're going to pieces, we're falling apart So won't you sing that song for me just like your favorite singer?