

Jimmies Chicken Shack, Man In The Corner moved to town when i was seventeen a token entry in the music scene my kingdom for an ax yah i was settled down if i could relax ten thousand people sharing one big scream fourteen people reading magazines and i pray tonite to keep my soul at bay give me one good reason before i stay he's the man in the middle he's the man in the corner you might not even know his name but he'll share his songs with you all the same

no he's the man in the corner another town and unconscious bar, well all you need need is love to drive this picture yourself in a boat downstream endless searching for the sites unseen my kingdom for a song don't need to settle down no that would take to long ten million people sharing the same dreams ten million reasons for no use it seems turn over tables some go some stay like changing seasons and he still plays

might not even know his name but he'll tear his heart out for you all the same yah he's the man in the middle

out of fuel, need to travel far, well all you need is love to drive this
all you need is love to drive this all you need is love and baby you can drive
you know i'm going to be baby you can drive
you know i'm going to be
you know you'll always be
a star
