

Kristian Kostov, Beautiful Mess

when the world shakes us trying to take us out of line fear of tomorrow feelings we borrow for a time

water so deep
how do we breathe
how do we climb?

so we stay in this mess
this beautiful mess tonight

and we don't have a thing to lose no matter what they say or do I don't want nothing more
our love is untouchable

even is the line of fire when everything is on the wire even up against the wall
our love is untouchable

our love is untouchable

when the colors are grey and the lights all fade to black again we're on over our heads but somehow we make it back again

water so deep
how do we breathe
how do we climb?

so we stay in this mess
this beautiful mess tonight

and we don't have a thing to lose
no matter what they say or do
I don't want nothing more
our love is untouchable

even is the line of fire
when everything is on the wire
even up against the wall
our love is untouchable

our love is untouchable