

Lita Ford, Where Will I Find My Heart Tonight

(Ford, Ehmig)

I found hunger in the fields of plenty
I found freedom in a ball and chain
I found madness in the voice of reason
I found mercy at the hangmans gate
Ive held the world in the palm of my hand
And watched as it slipped through my fingers like sand
Here I am alone again

*Where do I turn
When all I see around me is a lie?
If I close my eyes
Where will I find my heart tonight?
I know all my dreams have fallen on hard times
And Im so cold inside
Where will I find my heart tonight?

I found peace in the heat of the battle
I found treason in the eyes of a friend
I found hate in the words of a preacher
I found fortune in a beggars hands
I close my eyes and pray for the light
To guide my way
Into the night, I fall
And the world is crashin down around my soul

*chorus
I have searched a thousand years
Through the darkness and the tears
And I dont think I can take another night
Without you here

*chorus
