

Livingston, Last Man Standing

I've been around the world, seven wonders, seven seas
But when all is said and done, you're the only thing I see, my love
So tell me what you're lookin' for
You're written in the stories, a livin' masterpiece
So when all is said and done, why you standin' next to me, my love?
So tell me what you're lookin' for
And you said

I don't need a symphony
I just want your voice and a melody
I don't need your diamond rings
I just want your love, stop sellin' me
I don't need the wind that's underneath your wings
I just wanna know when you're landing
You don't need to be the king
'Cause I just want the last man standing

I've been around the world, lived a hundred fantasies
But when all is said and done, you're the only one I need, my love
Just tell me what you're lookin' for
'Cause you don't gotta fight so hard
Darlin', this is love, not war
All I want is who you are
That's what I've been lookin' for

I don't need a symphony
I just want your voice and a melody
I don't need your diamond rings
I just want your love, stop sellin' me
I don't need the wind that's underneath your wings
I just wanna know when you're landing
You don't need to be the king
'Cause I just want the last man standing

And you said: "I just want the last man standing, now"
And you said: "I just want the last man standing"

Oh, I don't need a symphony
I just want your voice and a melody
I don't need your diamond rings
I just want your love, stop sellin' me
I don't need the wind that's underneath your wings
I just wanna know when you're landing
You don't need to be the king
'Cause I just want the last man standing
