Oceania, Skyscraper

bleak stucco-crags clawing at the florescent sun plastic snow melting into the fiberglass forest garbled chirping the birds crumble in your hands if you don't have anything nice to say don't say anything at all live every day like it's my first don't say anything at all in the cold glow of autumn twilight I remember having something to remember look at the buildings and bridges and hills buried under an avalanche of time