

Paulina Rubio, Open Up Your Heart

My world is your refugee
A shoulder to lazies
It holds many treasures
Hides many faces
Like they're warning
So frightened and so confused

You're moving real slowly
Across my opinion
You're climbing the heals
And you lead you to me
But you don't even know
You don't know where you're going, no

As the sun goes down
And the moonlight shines upon your face
I see your pain
With a one breeze
I feel you breathless so upon my decence sense

Just open up your heart
You build your tender love
And bring to me
I'm never gonna stop
You'll be my buildcated refugee
Just open up your heart
You build your tender love
And bring to me
I'm never gonna stop
You'll be my buildcated refugee

Cling for my waters
I'm washing your thirst
I feel your compassion
As you make your own way
Into this world of mine
You can leave your troubles behind

As the sun goes down
And the moonlight shines upon your face
I see your pain
With a one breeze
I feel you breathless so upon my decence sense

Just open up your heart
You build your tender love
And bring to me
I'm never gonna stop
Just open up your heart
You build your tender love
And bring to me
I'm never gonna stop
