

Pennywise, City Is Burning

society reflects tonight an ugly mirror showing an animal instinct a twisted way to wrong a right how many dead before the sun comes arising lock your doors
and close your eyes sit back and watch TV while the problem grows outside
lock your doors
and shut off your mind while you are safe inside the city is burning tonight blinding lights burn in the sky a mass of shadows darkness usually hides animals out of there cage (who will) burn their own environment without any shame
so your guest is as good as mine will any good come out of this we'll know in time until that time let's not regress (let's learn) our lessons before there's another uprising
