Pet Shop Boys, Flamboyant

You live in a world of excess where more is more and less is much less A day without fame is a waste and a question of need is a question of taste

You're so flamboyant
the way you look
It gets you so much attention
Your sole employment
is getting more
You want police intervention
You're so flamboyant
the way you live
You really care that they stare
And the press deployment is always there
It's what you do for enjoyment

You live in a time of decay when the worth of a man is how much he can play Every day all the public must know where you are, what you do 'cause your life is a show and

You're so flamboyant
the way you live
and it's not even demeaning
You're so flamboyant
It's like a drug you use to give your life meaning You're so flamboyant
The way you look
It gets you so much attention
Your sole employment
Is getting more
You want police intervention

Every actor needs an audience Every action is a performance It all takes courage You know it Just crossing the street well, it's almost heroic You're so flamboyant

There you are at another preview In a pose the artist and you To look so loud may be considered tacky Collectors wear black clothes by Issey Miyake

You're so flamboyant the way you look It gets you so much attention Your sole employment is getting more You want police intervention You're so flamboyant The way you live You really care that they stare And the press deployment is always there It's what you do for enjoyment

You're so flamboyant You're so flamboyant