Rollins Band, Blues Jam

They always pry They always want to know why And then they pull you in And then you want to die You'll burn so deep inside And then it gets on top of you It won't let you go Believe me when I tell you Life will not break your heart It'll crush it You never felt so good You never felt so well And then you open your heart right up And say come on in And then that's when you stop breathing, man And the bleeding will never end Heart smasher Knives in your mind
