

Sarah Masen, Sorrow's Hymn

And so my mind aches with sorrows deep down
Breaking my soul inside
It is the sadness that brings my head down
Down on my knees

But I know my Redeemer lives
That's where my heart finds rest
In Him I find the hope to walk on Down that dark narrow road

I do not settle for pity's excuse
In fact I assume I'm wrong
Falling or flying my soul is confused
As to where destiny pulls

But I know my Redeemer lives
That's where my heart finds rest
In him I find my hope to walk on
Down that dark narrow road
down that dark narrow road
