

Seventh Wonder, Unbreakable

Among us who live inside the town's eyes

Oh - tell me what's the catch?

We harbor dark in the light..

I can see young ones in the park

With smiles they're playing

(high on dreams)

I need to feel real - just like that

How good you are

We live in paradise...

The park lies by the high-rise

Casting shadows cold and dark

A lonely face in the window

Seeks to cloud their dreams

She envies the light of his ways

How can I stand in peace and watch as

The will to smile has gone

How can it be?

Merges as darkness

Will follow and enter the light

Or is it just the way

The human nature fails to keep up high

And lets the shadow break the unbreakable

Everyone tells you:

'bout this place where sun shines

Where all the children play

Oh - how it pleases my heart

Everyone there knows not to go inside

The tall house

(that children fear)

Inside a darkened mind
Whose lust for life has left for paradise

Watching every single daybreak without hope
Looking back in time to find something real
To hold close to her heart
There are places in her memory
She just cannot reach
Tears from a lady
Hit the ground as she is crying out his name

She's taking her own life
Breath by breath prepares for death
All alone in the world
She's trapped without her dreams
Imagine the pain she must feel

Repeat chorus
