

Shout Out Louds, There's Nothing

There's a dream that's never ending
There's a dream that's always out of hand
There's nothing I can do about it
Because the dream is out of my command
There are songs that never should be written
There are words that never should be said
There's nothing I can do about it
Because the words are always in my head
There's nothing
There's nothing
They say that I should always listen
They say that I should always be aware
There nothing I can do about it
I just want to make them disappear
There's nothing
There's nothing
There's nothing I can do to make them disappear
There's nothing never ending
There's words that are never easy to say
But oh there's nothing
