Sia, The Church Of What's Happening Now

I want to change, to rearrange What is going on I need to change, I need to play Like a five year old

I can't detach from the past and all of the pain I need to learn, start from scratch begin again

Throw away yesterday Today is a brand new day Throw away yesterday Today is a brand new day

So I'm going to eat one hundred sweets I don't care if I get fat And I'm going to speak one I won't censor me I know I can take nothing back

And I'm going to jump I will unburden I cannot go too deep I will not run from bad things I've done They're things I'll try not to repeat

Throw away yesterday Today is a brand new day Throw away yesterday Today is a brand new day

Welcome to
The church of what's happening now
Head straight through
It costs nothing but change

Throw away yesterday Today is a brand new day Throw away yesterday Today is a brand new day

Throw away yesterday Today is a brand new day Throw away yesterday Today is a brand new day
