Sophie Ellis-Bextor, Crystallise

Waiting for a lifetime Like you're carved from the mountain Sometimes I stand like a statue Waiting to surprise you

And when it comes, and what it does Is nail you down, you cannot swerve You're not the last, you're not the first To sometimes lose your nerve

You don't need to try hard You don't need to wise up It all becomes clear as day So crystallise love

It's been sleeping since day one Trapped in your subconscious Scheming for the moment When you stop feeling cautious

And when it comes, and what it does Is nail you down, you cannot swerve You're not the last, you're not the first To sometimes lose your nerve

You don't need to try hard You don't need to wise up It all becomes clear as day So crystallise love