

Tanya Tucker, Time And Distance

there is a place down in tennessee i call home there is someone down there i call my own at least i think he is lord i pray he is least i could do is give him a call our love across the miles is holding strong with every sign of going on and on least i hope it will lord i pray it will but there is a danger still cuz we know
that time and distance
will do their level best to build a wall between us and put love to the test the doubt and temptation step in and take control calling on suspicion
to come and take its toll we cant lead love down the path of least resistance we've got to hold our own against time and distance they say out of sight out of mind but i say love like ours can hold the line im here to say they're wrong i hope and pray they're wrong and we can keep love strong
cuz we know
that time and distance
will do their level best
to build a wall between us
and put love to the test
the doubt and temptation step in and take control
calling on suspicion
to come and take its toll
we cant lead love down the path of least resistance we've got to hold our own agains time and distance
we've got to hold our own
against time and distance