

Tanya Tucker, What Do They Know

They say that life goes on I'll find true love again.
It's not the end of the world,
one day my heart will mend.
Someone will come along and a new love will grow That's what they say but what do they know How could they know the pain I feel inside my heart, they never lost your love, so who do they think they are.
They never held you, or had to let you go.
Well They're not trying to live without you,
so what do they know They say all is fair in love but for me that's just not true.
I feel like someone took a knife and cut my life in two.
It's better to have love and lost than to have never loved, I'm told.
At least that's what they say, but what do they know
Well they're not trying to live without you,
so what do they know
