Teramaze, Emancipation

All alone, you sit and wonder why we are here Why we die You can't stop the infusion, the static confusion Of what we are supposed to be The war within your soul Is far beyond our control It's in him you've got to believe Can't you see It's far beyond you and me Will you believe That he will set you free When I look back the moment God touched you Was when you were slipping away It shows that the love his hand Is so much stronger than the love of today Can't you see It's far beyond you and me Will you believe That he will set you free
