The Alan Parsons Project, In The Real World

Lead vocal - John Miles

One more compromise I won't be making One more easy way out I won't be taking So many chances don't come twice So many eyes are made of ice One more cheating hand I won't be shaking

One more substitute I won't be trying One more piece of the rock that I'm not buying So many times we stand and fight So many reasons can't be right One more simple truth I'm not denying

Too many lonely hearts in the real world Too many lonely nights in the real world Too many fools who don't think twice Too many ways to pay the price Don't wanna live my life in the real world

One more sacrifice I won't be making One more golden rule I won't be breaking No one to let me state my case No one to tell me to my face One more sweet suprise I won't be faking

Too many lonely hearts in the real world Too many lonely nights in the real world Too many bridges you can burn Too many tables you can't turn Don't wanna live my life in the real world

Too many lonely hearts in the real world Too many lonely nights in the real world Too many games that I can't play Too many windmills in my way Don't wanna live in the real world
