

The Swellers, Run

You said that you hate me now.
You said you never want to see, my face again.
I never said sorry then,
I never kept my promises, like a true friend.

And there you'll be along the way,
Thanks again I appreciate it everyday.
And then I'll say the thing I've always said
And throw it all away.

You can let go now, and I swear that I won't run.
I'll be just fine.
I'll take it from here.
I quit staring at the sun,
For good this time.

You said I'm impossible.
You said you wish that I could feel, what you been through.
I said I'm not feeling this.
I guess I have some growing up to do with you.

And there you'll be along the way,
Thanks again I appreciate it everyday.
And then do the thing I've always done
And throw it all away.

You can let go now, and I swear that I won't run.
I'll be just fine.
I'll take it from here.
I quit staring at the sun,
For good this time.

For good this time.
