The Wallflowers, How Far You've Come

You'd have a wonderful day
If you could see how lucky you are Now don't get carried away with your heart
You're better where you are

You're not the only one Who's had to hang on to a moving star Now don't be sorry, what's done now is done And this is who you are

These days feel numbered and long There's no one to speak of, there's no one at all But you're not the reason that everyone's gone That's not how they are

There is no system to change No conditions are made, no permissions to start Now don't go drawing lines in the sand That's not who you are

Sometimes a high wall is just a wall Sometimes it's only there to make sure you feel small Or maybe there to save you From the depths of a much deeper fall

The truth will not set you free It's okay to believe that you're not good enough God is not angry, not blind, deaf, or dumb He knows how far you've come He knows how far you've come He knows how far you've come
